THE NEWS IN WESTERLY.

Chief of Police Eransfield, the Complainant, Prosecutor and Chief Witness at Friday's Court Session—
Italian Building Laborers Strike—Deaths of Rev. Joseph E. Piper, Joseph Bloesser and Mrs. Sarah Barber.

The districting commission held a session Thursday to consider important changes in the census and election laws made necessary by the adoption of the redistricting amendment to the Rhode Island constitution. The commission invited to the conference representatives of the political parties in the state to get their views on proposed changes, but no open action was taken, although the suggestions made will be given consideration by the committee.

Judge Thomas W. Peabody of Westerly was one of the representatives of the prohibition party at the session. He said that in Westerly the prohibitionists outnumber the democrats, but have no place in supervising the elections, not even when there is no democratic ballot in use at elections, and the opposing parties are republicans and prohibitionists.

The annual Larkin family reunion was held at Narragansett Pier on Thursday. The occasion was a pleasant one, and the party was to be photographed. The steps leading to the Sea View pavilion were selected as the place to have the family photographed, and all were seated in readiness for the camera, when the steps gave way and the party was precipitated to the beach, a distance of about fifteen feet.

None was seriously hurt, the injuries consisting of sprained ankles, bruises and slight cuts. Among those injured were Mrs. William Dove of Westerly and granddaughter, Mrs. George Sweet of Wakefield. Mrs. Henry Clarke of Hope Valley and Mrs. Ralph Larkin of Kingston. The next reunion will be at Pleasant View.

The position of chief of police of Westerly is not as desirable as the high sounding title would indicate, as the supervision of the department is only a factor in the makeup of his duties. He is expected to take his regular turn at patrol duty with the other members of the force, and to devote the balance of his time, save the few hours devoted to sleep, in detective work and in getting together evidence to be introduced in court. He is also the complainant in nearly all criminal cases, and at the session of the Third district court he was the witness in the case against the seized liquor of Frank Lavelle, Chief of Police Eransfield was not only the complainant, and the actual prosecutor, but also the chief witness for the state. Judge Williams declared the liquor forfeited to the state and ordered the destruction of the same.

Paul Juliana, a carpenter, brought action against Saverio De Costanzo, to secure alleged balance due him of $180, in a bill against De Costanzo of $750. Juliana claims that he had agreed to make specified changes in a house owned by De Costanzo for $300, but soon after the work was commenced the plans were all changed and he continued on the job for the day. After the bill had reached the amount of $750, De Costanzo refused to continue payments and Juliana did not complete the work. He says he never sent the defendant an itemized bill, or any other kind of a bill, as De Costanzo said he would pay him no more money on account.

The defendant claimed that Juliana agreed to do the work for $300, and charge extra cost for all changes made, and that $250 overpaid him for all that had been done, and that the job should have been completed for that amount.

Considerable evidence was introduced and Judge Williams gave judgment for defendant with costs.

The local branch of the Hod Carriers and Building Laborers' union, although organized less than a year, have had several strikes of more or less magnitude. The organization is composed wholly of Italians and at the outset won out in their demands for bill of prices that regulated the pay of masons, hod carriers and shovelers, in a sliding scale. The result has been that nearly all the members now consider themselves masons or hod carriers, and want pay accordingly, while the shovelers are comparatively few, owing to the lower wages. So the shifting of the laborers from one part of the work to the other, even for an hour or two, is liable to make trouble for the employers.

The men in the employ of Louis Dotoli, general contractor, quit work quite suddenly Friday morning. Last Sunday the highway committee of the town decided to oil some of the streets and hired Mr. Dotoli's sprinkling carts for the work. Friday morning he was informed that the union had imposed a fine of $5 on him for leasing the sprinkling carts to the town to be operated by non-union men, and that he must pay or the men in his employ would strike. Mr. Dotoli declined to pay and told the men to get off the job and meet him at a specified place an hour later and receive their pay. He was at the appointed at the specified time, but the men did not step up for their wages, fearing that was equivalent to a permanent discharge. Mr. Dotoli says he does not seriously object to union hours and union pay, but that he will not tolerate longer any dictation from employees relative to the conduct of his business, nor will he permit rapid self-promotion from one grade of work to another just for the purpose of demanding an increase in wages. He expects to have a full working force by Monday.

The workmen in the teamsters were fined $5 for working Sunday and refused to pay the fine and therefore are not union men. Dotoli would not discharge these men, so the others quit work.

That tart speech of George W. Parks of Providence, a guest at the Ocean house, at the recent meeting of the Watch Hill fire district, in which he attacked the town council of Westerly, and demanded explanation how it was that the trolley company got anything it wanted and to the detriment of Watch Hill, although enthusiastically applauded at the time by those most bitterly opposed to the rebuilding of the trolley road, has been generally approved by the cottage owners at Watch Hill.

Nor is the proposition to separate Watch Hill from Westerly, and to have all the taxing population of Watch Hill. One of the most substantial cottagers has declared that not only is the project impracticable but impossible, and he characterized the movement as absurd. Others believe that would be a disaster, not only to both Westerly and Watch Hill and that all taxes paid on Watch Hill should be devoted to improvement of that village, but that it would be permitted to keep the roads to the Hill in good repair and pump water through the mains for Watch Hill use.

The building of a seawall along the bay front and the making of a park along Bay street has been effectively shelved to await the report of a committee on separation. A Watch Hill representative declares that to be only a blind to stop the collection of money for the proposed improvement during the present season.

Rev. Joseph E. Piper, a regularly ordained minister of the Baptist church, who retired from the ministry many years ago to engage in secular business, died early Friday morning at his home on Hinckley Hill. He preached in many places in Rhode Island and gained quite a reputation as an evangelist, and before ordination held membership in the Calvary Baptist church. He conducted revival meetings among the colored people of Westerly and as a result baptized a large number of converts. His last pastorate was with the Second Baptist church of North Stonington, Conn. Piper was a forcible preacher and his plain, strong utterances were beyond the limit of some of his hearers. Subsequently Mr. Piper became a Methodist.

After retiring from the ministry he engaged in stock raising and was nearly twenty years has been employed as elevator man in the Lorraine mills in Mechanic street. Mr. Piper was born in Portsmouth, N. H., 77 years ago, and is survived by his widow and a son, Joseph E. Piper.

Joseph Bloesser, a well-known resident, died at his home, 47 Moss street, late Thursday afternoon of consumption, age 37 years. He was employed in the C. B. Cottrell & Son's plant for fourteen years and was a skilled mechanic. His widow survives and one daughter, Isabelle, who also lives with her brothers and sisters, Mrs. F. A. Bottom of Stonington. Mrs. David Robertson and Henry and Frank Bloesser of Westerly. Mrs. Elizabeth Norwood and Mrs. Carl Vandouff of Norwich, and Charles Bloesser of Groton.

There is no change in the critical condition of George E. Champlin, who was thrown from a trolley car Wednesday morning resulting in a broken sacrum. Dr. John Keene of Providence is called in consultation by Drs. Champlin and Scanlon, Friday, and decided it was not a case for operation, and that the diagnosis of the local physicians was correct.

Local Lacerations.

Wilfred E. Utter, Robert Kissick, Rowman Cook and Albert Keane of Westerly, have gone to Becket, Mass., to camp with the Y. M. C. A. of Massachusetts and Rhode Island for four weeks.

Miss May Charlotte Friend and Harry Hyde Weeks were married in Boston Thursday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Friend. The bride is a niece of Peleg, William D. and Charles Lawton of Westerly.

Mrs. Sarah Barber, age 84, formerly of Westerly, and widow of Lieut. J. Clarke Barber, died Thursday in Bridgeport. She leaves a son, Herbert of New York city, and a daughter, Alida, with whom she resided in Bridgeport. Interment will be in the Oak Grove cemetery, Ashaway, where her husband was buried fifteen years ago.

"Why Didn't You Shoot?"
Said Gov. Judson Harmon of the commonwealth of Ohio to Sheriff William Linke, chief peace officer of Licking county, "Why didn't you shoot the first man who entered the jail?" This is a very pertinent question, as the time of the developments at the time of the inquiry, but it does not go far enough back, as an investigation of the disgrace which has been brought upon the fair fame of our sister state. The more important questions are: Why were the illegal actions permitted to exist? Why did not the property constituted officers of the law proceed regularly and persistently to close up these places long before the situation reached the acute stage? Why did they not possess a regard for their duty sufficiently strong to impel them to cause the law to be obeyed, and not permit matters to go on growing worse and worse, until the law-abiding citizens, realizing that the city and county authorities would not perform their sworn duty, brought in a body of men to perform the work the public law officers were elected to perform and paid to perform? These are the pertinent questions in connection with the Newark affair.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Settling the Northwest.

The government will throw open to homestead 800,000 acres in Montana July 19, and each persons who files may secure 320 acres, thus providing new homes for 1,875 settlers and their families.

This is a very small opening as compared with others made, and to be made by the government, but it is an important one, nevertheless, for it not only affords entry to some choice agricultural land in a great and growing state and country, but indicates the wise policy of our government to provide new homes for people with the means and will to obtain them just as rapidly as conditions permit. This land lies immediately north of the new Puget Sound railroad in a section of the northwest where the precipitation is said to be ample and soil fertile. Uncle Sam is in the business of helping the people to build up this empire of the west and placing at their disposal magnificent facilities with which to begin their enterprise.—Omaha Bee.

Promise Already Fulfilled.
The Hamilton county resolutions provided that William H. Taft will be a worthy successor of Theodore Roosevelt. The prediction is eminently a safe one, as it is already being fulfilled.—Des Moines Capital.

Will Corrupt Mollycoddles.
We infer that any proposition to exhibit moving pictures of football games will meet with the determined opposition of President David Starr Jordan.—Chicago Tribune.
